To Vote or Not to Vote.

That is the question that is just now agitating the minds of the female members of society, as Betsy Bobbett puts it, to the exclusion of the old topics of spring styles, house furnishing, society events and the other Napoleon Monday on business.

RIDGEVILLE CORNERS.

July 9th, 1894.—The Glorious Fourth came and went, and our little village came and went, and our little village celebrated with much zeal, and apparent patriotism. Old Glory was seen floating in all directions. The usual amount of powder and dynamite ushered in the day at midnight, as well as the ringing of the church bells. The forenoon was occupied by foot reason with the affection of the church bells.

At 1 o'clock the crowd as-sembled to enjoy more rational exer-cises, as follows: Music by the Co-net band, Song, Star Spangled Ban-ner; Prayer, Song, Red White and Blue; Reading of the Declaration, W. T. Chapman; Address by Rev. I. N. Kalb, of Napoleon. Following these exercises came the bicycle race: Races of way, of woman, and of children. of men, of women, and of children; also a mule race and a sack race, and the capturing of a greased pig. The most amusing feature however was a burlesque on Coxey's army, which came marching through the village, conveyances, and dressed correspond ingly. The procession halted at the band stand, while Coxey and Brown made characteristic speeches to the crowd. In the evening the crowd was still greater, which came to wit-ness the liberal display of fireworks. Altogether the celebration was a decided success. The address of Rev. Kalb was replete with good things, and was liberally applauded. No ac-cident occurred to mar the general hilarity of the occasion. It has just cropped out that a certain beer loving gentleman is repre-senting, in our midst, the firm of "Satan, Liquor dealers & Co., Manufacturers of poverty, crime, distress and damnation." Owing to a high standard of moral sentiment no one has the hardihood to pursue the traf-fic openly and so it is being brought in from "Hell's Half Acre," at Dogtown, and privately dealt out to certain ones among the initiated. If a man desires to cut short his own life guzzling the vile compounds, there is no law against it, but "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink; that putteth thy bottle unto him and maketh him drunken also." The personage above referred to should have a

In Memoriam.

GILLILAND,—Perry Gilliland was born in Wyandotte county, Ohio, Jan. 24th, 1856, and died in Monroe township, Henry county, Ohio, June 20th, 1894, agad 38 years, 5 months and 3 days.
He leaves a wife and four sons, failur, mother, two sisters and four brothers, and a large circle of friends to mourn his departure. We miss thee from thy home, dear Perry,

We miss thee from thy place; A shadow o'er our life is cast,

How slender is life's silver cord, How soon 'tis broken here, Each moment brings a parting word, And many a falling tear.

And though these years to mortals given, Are filled will grief and pain, There is a hope, the hope of Heaven, Where loved ones meet again.

One by one earth's ties are broken. As we our loved decay, And the hope so fondly cherished, Brighten but to pass away.

One by one our hope grows brighter, As we near the Shining Shore, For we know across the river, Waits that loved one gone before.

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding, O'er the spoils that death has won, We would at this solemn meeting Calmly say, "Thy will be done."

Though cast down we're not forsaken, 'Though afflicte 1 not alone. Though shittee i not alone.

Thou didst give and I hou hast taken,
Blessed Lord, "Tny will be done."

CARD. We extend our hearffelt thanks to our friends and nei hhors who so kindly assisted us in the liness and death of our dear husband and father. Especially the Grangers, and when it is theirs to mourn, may they have as kind friends to soothe their sorrow, is the wish of MRS. KATIE GILLHAND AND CHILDREN.

This is not t'e time, place or temperature, nor I the one to make a political speech, but I might give you a sample of my kind of Democracy. There is something in Democracy more sacred to me than theories of finance, tariff and ta ation. They are merely methods of carrying on the government, difficult, indeed, but in due time they adjust themselves. I believe the statesmen of the great political parties are honest men, administering the affairs of government as seems best to them. But this great government is ber. I shall strive to prove worth; of you. best to them. But this great government is itself a democracy. Its framers asserted the doctrine that governments derive their just powers from the governed. They construct-ed and created for the first time a true Democracy. Although the country is to a degree embarrassed it did not originate, if it did germinate under the party in power. Yet this si ks into nothing when it is considered that the mission of the Democratic party is to preserve this government and transmit it to posterity (applause.) So long as the people remain true to themselves and give the gentlemen who are exalted to high official positions on the bench, to understrud that they must be prompted by inflexible duty and honesty, must respect and administer the laws justly, we can expect this government of the people to be perpetuated. When the American judiciary is dragged in the gutter of partisanism, no further calamity will be necessary to pull this government down. Such is my idea of the American judiciary. ### The Whole Story Truthfully Told. In March, 1893, Cleveland got a bankrupt treasury from Harrison and the republican party, instead of the $100,000,000 treasury surplus Harrison received from Cleveland four years before. Even the sinking fund nts on account of the national debt, to payments on account of the national debt, to which the faith of the government was pledged, had been suspended by Harrison. It was a case of republican extravagance and skeling pure and simple. The sugar schedule of the McKinley tariff, dictated by the sugar trust, and agreed to between midnight and daylight, in the interest of congressional speculators—of whom Senator Quay boasts. spec..lators-of whom Senator Quay bossts he was one—stripped the country of $75.000,-000 of revenue and sngar bounties, and this happens to be the sum of the treasury deficiency at the close of the fiscal year, this week. Cleveland fell heir to a treasury bank-rupted by republican extravagance and stealing, and to the McKinley revenue system that created a deficiency of $75.000,000 between revenues and expenditures. That is the history of the whole business briefly told.—Pittsburg Post.
